

A Wild Autumn First for Dumfries & Galloway

The first Dumfries & Galloway Wild Autumn Festival runs 12 October - 3rd November 2013, with almost 100 individual family-friendly events offering a wealth of opportunities to get up close with remarkable wildlife this autumn. From building Bug Hotels at Cream o Galloway to the daily Red Kite feeding frenzy at Belymack Farm and from the Wild Geese Dawn Flight at the WWT Caerlaverock Wetland Centre to a Wilderness Canoeing expedition on Loch Ken.

The festival represents fantastic value, with many events completely free and, where charges apply, average adult ticket prices around only £5. And all events offer a healthy and inspiring way to entertain children during the autumn half-term.
